

We all have a unique piece of the puzzle to complete ...

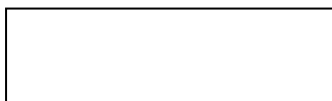

Take a look at nature and I think you will agree that everything evolves in circles, spirals and comes down to vibration. Nothing in nature is in a straight line, everything works in circles. Nothing in nature is wasted or happens by chance. Circles and eclipses are seen in water, stars, everywhere. Vibration can be seen in colour, heard in sound and seen in movement. Vibration, circles and spirals can be dramatic or subtle and can best be defined and monitored using numbers.

Our lives at times can seem far removed from these circles and spirals, but nothing happens by chance ...

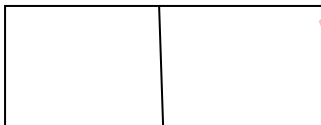

In 1202 Fibonacci observed the rate at which leaves grew on plants and then observed this same pattern throughout nature. From this sequence comes the 'Golden Ratio' which is used in architecture, art, industrial design, music and nature. These ratios are all around us, as well as within us and are a huge part of our world.

The Fibonacci Sequence consists of adding the 2 previous numbers i.e. 1, 1, 2, 3, 5, 8, 13, 21, 34 ...

This sequence is famously represented graphically as follows: -

= 3

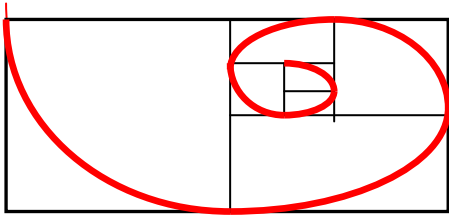

= 5

= 8

These straight lines can then be connected make a beautiful curve: -

So, although every straight line in this sequence has a unique starting point and journey and may seem to be working in isolation, each plays a crucial role in creating this beautiful curve ...

Our lives can be thought of in similar terms, apparently separate from nature, working in straight lines, rather than in circles and spirals. Each line apparently working away in isolation, able to observe other straight lines or lives around them, but not always able to see the greater pattern that they are a part of creating and not always able to realise how totally interconnected and interdependent we all are.

Our lives can go along in straight lines, grounded and connected to the earth

Our lives can aspire to the heavens and reach upward

We may feel we are in our own bubble separate from the bigger picture, but we are all making our unique contributions to that bigger beautiful pattern.

Although we may see things as separate from us, there is a dimension of our lives that is one with the universe.

Of course we are human and so have free will, we may have our own ideas of how our life should be. As a consequence our lives don't always go along or upwards in a straight line, our lives can go backwards and downwards too ... We may spin around on the cross we do our work on, experiencing things, but always with the option to cut through the illusion of it all and connect with the bigger picture.

"It is necessary to go a long way, through many difficulties, to find a place one has never left".

T.S Elliott

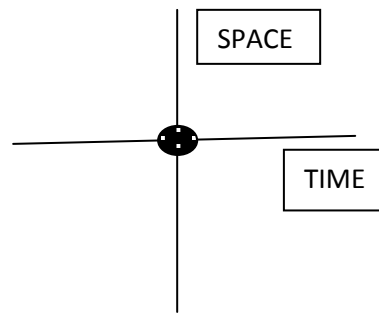

Nothing in nature is perfect – and this is what makes it beautiful.

An ancient Chinese proverb encapsulates this: -

"Everything is perfect, but there's a lot of work to do"

We can spend our lives trying to make things as we think they should be when with a slightly different perspective we can perhaps see the beauty without the perfection and learn to love the imperfection.

Our unique journey starts at the centre of this cross with our 'Birth Energy'.

Time is a man made concept and can be defined as follows: -

An observed phenomenon, by means of which we sense and record changes in the environment and in the universe. Space is not manmade and can be regarded as the environment we work in.

Where these two lines cross represents our birth energy, the unique environment we choose to be born into.

The ancients used to believe that when you name something, you make it sacred and connect it to that bigger picture or pattern. In nature nothing happens by chance and with your name and date of birth, your unique birth energy is defined.

The name on your Birth Certificate (even if you never use this), together with your Date of Birth produce a set of numbers to show your mission, as well as your unique set of tools, gifts, challenges etc, tailor made to help you to complete the unique piece of the puzzle that is your life.

Coming to terms with the fact that we may have chosen to be born into a unique set of circumstances can be very difficult. We all carry 'stuff' around with us and Numerology can be all about opening up that case and taking a look inside. With a different perspective, what may feel like a ball and chain weighing you down, can become your greatest treasure. Feeling gratitude for what a situation or person may have taught us, can transform everything.

Numerology can help you to align to your higher self, help you to see how you fit in to that bigger picture and can help you to make sense of all that has gone before ...

The universe wants you to complete the unique piece of the puzzle that is your life, wants you to learn certain lessons and to perhaps turn some karma around. It can be tangible the universe supporting and guiding you, when you are doing what you have been put on this planet to do, things can happen more quickly and may feel as though they are falling into place.

The 'work to do' can be about looking at your life in a completely different way. Understanding what we are here to do, what the lessons may be, what the karma is that we may be turning around. Numerology can help us to understand why certain situations may keep coming up and why certain people may be in our world.

Numerology can provide great clarity and vision, with regard to what is really going on in your life and can help you to make more informed choices with regard to the best way forward for you ...

On a practical note, the tools I use to help you to understand your journey to date include 'Relationship Charts' which show graphically the connections you share with the people in your world and the impact of significant dates i.e. marriage date(s) and divorce date(s) etc.

I also use 'Life Maps' which are like a detailed weather forecast for your life showing your journey to date and beyond (ages 0 to 99). Your 'Life Map' can help you to understand the rhythms, cycles, turning points in your journey. You can verify your 'years to date' and potentially understand your journey to date in a whole new way.

No moralising or judgement it just is what it is ...
