

12/12/12 - 21/12/12 – 22/12/12 and beyond ...

The date 12/12/12 is dominated by the magical 12/ 3 energy. This energy represents the trinity, the blue print and the idea. There is the potential for great harmony here, as $1+2+3 = 6$ and 12/ 3 can represent physical (1), emotional (2) and mental (3) working together in great harmony, symbolically also, there were 12 apostles.

This energy also represents the potential for successful co-operative ventures, with masculine energies (1) and feminine energies (2) co-operating together to make ideas happen (3). Potential obstacles here could be a great impatience to make things happen and the potential to scatter energy. There may also a great deal of emotion generated on this day (2) and there is the potential to be 'up with brilliant ideas and then down with emotion'. The challenge on this day is to see things through, without getting distracted and without emotional drama, which can occur because you feel so responsible for the happiness of others that you can give too much. You may also so much want the harmony, that you can allow others to push you so far, that you have to redress the balance. It is important to see things from the perspective of others on this day.

The mission that comes from this date is energy 29/ 11/ 2, which represents bringing in the light. With this mission there is the potential for amazing wisdoms to come through if you can be strong emotionally i.e. these wisdoms come through on the 2 of emotion. Being strong emotionally can mean speaking your wisdoms even though others may not respond as you would like them to and being creative in your own way, without worrying what others may think. With a great deal of 3 energy on this day you may also feel a great need to communicate effectively with others, bringing great joy into the lives of others. You may therefore feel torn between saying what others want to hear and speaking your truth. There may be a great need to be with people on this day and with such intense energies you may feel forced to dig deep, in order to communicate effectively and also to see things as others do i.e. not to take it personally when not everyone wants to share your joy and to find the courage to stand alone and to truly be yourself.

More significant than the date 12/12/12 is the date 21/12/12, as this is the day of the winter solstice this year and is also the date that represents the end of the 5125-year-long cycle in the Mesoamerican Long Count calendar or Mayan calendar.

The Winter Solstice is the shortest day and the first day of winter in the Northern Hemisphere, it marks the point when the days start to get longer. The Winter Solstice has profound cultural meaning around the world and throughout history. The cultural significance varies, but generally refers to a time of rebirth and renewal and is celebrated with festivals and rituals. The fact that this is the shortest day and the longest night, adds great intensity to the energies for this day. There can be highly developed intuition and sensation respectively. You may also want to have fun, but could be too serious to do so.

The Ancient Mayan calendar speaks of 21/12/12 as the end of times as we know it, and the beginning of a new cycle of evolution for planet earth, humanity and the cosmos. Mayan elders say that the Ancients were informing the modern world to be ready for a giant transformation for the human race. Interestingly, traditions across the world including Buddhism, Tao, Hopi and Vedic knowledge predict a 'Golden Age' or 'Satyug' in their calendars around the same period. December 2012 is being looked upon as a significant spiritual event and a momentous shift in the collective consciousness of the planet.

In terms of Numerology, the energies represented by 21/12/12 are similar to the energies represented by 12/12/12, but on this day the energies are led by 21/ 3, which represents, the birth of the idea. Also, far more important on this date, is the courage to stand alone and to be the independent, self-achieving pioneer who leads the way, by doing things in new ways. There may be a great determination on this day, to put yourself in the driving seat, rather than have the environment dictate your actions and how you feel. Being independent of the approval of others can give you great power and freedom. The mission that comes from the date is 38/ 11/ 2, which is about inspiring others through your work. The date 12/12/12 has a lot more to do with communication, the date 21/12/12 has a lot more to do with the power of silence and connecting to your true essence, energies may also be more intensely focussed. The ability to let go, trust and to be more forgiving may also be more critical here.

With 21/12/12 representing the day of the winter solstice for this year and so representing rebirth and renewal, as well as the end of the Mayan calendar. The date 22/12/12 represents to some the beginning of a whole new era for mankind. The mission that comes from this date is the energy 39/ 12/ 3, which represents a massive letting go, as well as the creation of a whole new system of communication.

There may be a huge amount of emotion, deep heart ache and confusion with regard to letting go. Rigid ideas may be knocked out of you and you may feel that you no longer know your place in the new order, as you used to in the old. The old is replacing the new and now is the time to embrace change and to go with your brilliant ideas without the procrastination or the fear. This is the time to be a true pioneer.

A lot can be gained by again going into the silence and reconnecting with your true essence, so as to emerge as truly yourself, rather than who you had to be, to survive or win in the old order. This is the time also to find a balance also between fun and seriousness, a time again for co-operative ventures led by leaders who may not have been leaders before.
